Grantees: Please refer to the following definitions when completing the Excel sheet. Place an "X" in the appropriate boxes when the information correlates with your program participants.

Post Secondary: is a form of secondary education that is taken after first attending a secondary school, such as a high school. The purpose of a post-secondary education can be to receive vocational education and training or to prepare for an even higher level of education or employment.

Apprenticeship: is a structured system of post-secondary training designed to prepare individuals for skilled occupations. It is paid on-the-job training. Participants get paid while they learn. Registered apprenticeship training is more formal than most other types of on-the-job training. Registration means that the program meets government standards of fairness, safety, and training.

Training Academy: A school for special instruction.

On The Job Training: OJT's are company sponsored and are an opportunity for secondary and post-secondary students to learn about a business on the inside. Interns must be paid if your company is a for-profit-organization.
