Award No. 226-06

June 2006

1. Scope of Work

The total project scope is to provide continuous protection along 1800 linear feet of shoreline adjacent to the bulk fuel storage facilities and the school. This consists of two discontinuous areas of approximately 600 and 200 linear feet of shoreline along the tank farms, with approximately 1000 linear feet between the two. The full length of protection must be provided, or the Denali Commission project may not proceed.

The scope of the Denali Commission funded portion of this project is to design and build shoreline erosion protection for the two bulk fuel storage facilities in Kivalina, Alaska. The Northwest Arctic Borough (NWAB) is required to employ the services of a coastal engineer or other Commission approved professional experienced in Arctic erosion protection projects to evaluate proposed designs. The Request for Proposals (RFP) will be written to ensure full and open competition for the design and material procurement. A copy of the RFP shall be submitted to the Denali Commission no later than its issuance date. NWAB will provide the Commission with copies of the RFP applications at the close of the RFP prior to selections. The Commission will be included in the NWAB evaluation of proposal applications.

The US Army Corps of Engineers, Alaska District Draft Report: "Kivalina, Alaska Relocation Planning Project Master Plan" dated December 2005 is available for support and information in developing the RFP.

NWAB is required to acquire all permits and necessary site control to proceed with construction of this project. This includes but is not limited to:

- State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO) review
- ACOE individual permit under section 404
- ADEC 401 certification
- DNR tideland easement/permit
- EPA NPDES/SWPPP
- NWAB Title 9 Zoning
